Published on Global Trade Alert (http://www.globaltradealert.org)

Coverage

More states block cheap Chinese imports

"Geneva - Protectionism is on the rise as more countries try to give their economies a leg-up by blocking foreign competition - especially Chinese imports, according to a report by independent economists to be published on Wednesday.

More states block cheap Chinese imports

19 Jul 2011
Reuters, Fin24

U.S. Trade Policy: Is America AWOL?

"World Bank President Robert Zoellick got the White House?s attention this weekend, chiding(Washington Post) the Obama administration for ?dumbing down? the Doha Round of multilateral tr

U.S. Trade Policy: Is America AWOL?

18 Jul 2011
Stewart M. Patrick, Council on Foreign Relations

Argentina: beggaring our neighbours

"Argentina has run into trouble before with trade tactics that often seem like knee-jerk reactions to events rather than a coherent policies.

The result is a growing reputation for protectionism, which is earning it few friends and making many enemies...

Argentina: beggaring our neighbours

14 Jul 2011
Jude Webber, Financial Times

China: Export quota on coke (fuel) for 2011

On 8 July 2011, the Chinese Ministry of Commerce (MOFCOM) announced the 2011 second batch of export quota on coke. In accordance with the statement on MOFCOM website, 41 companies were accredited as qualified coke exporters.

China: Export quota on coke (fuel) for 2011

12 Jul 2011
GTA, Global Trade Alert

Protektionismus geht nach hinten los; Die Bevorzugung der heimischen Wirtschaft wirkt sich negativ auf Investitionen aus

"Die Bevorzugung der heimischen Wirtschaft wirkt sich negativ auf Investitionen aus

Protektionismus geht nach hinten los; Die Bevorzugung der heimischen Wirtschaft wirkt sich negativ auf Investitionen aus

5 Jul 2011
GÜNTHER OSWALD, Der Standard

Exchange Rate Regimes and Protectionism

"Exchange rate reforms have helped support a more liberal trade regime over the last several decades. Important shifts have included widespread currency convertibility, the move toward unified exchange rates, and the increased adoption of flexible exchange rates.

Exchange Rate Regimes and Protectionism

1 Jul 2011
Uri Dadush, Shimelse Ali, Rachel Odell, Carnegie Endowment: International Economic Bulletin

Viet Nam: Decreased export duties on certain minerals

Effective 20 May 2010, the government of Viet Nam lowered its export tariffs for certain mineral products.

Viet Nam: Decreased export duties on certain minerals

27 Jun 2011
GTA, Global Trade Alert

Una usina de trabajo: las restricciones a la importación

"La Argentina tiene 65 medidas que restringen las importaciones provenientes de China, 40 para las tailandesas y 39 para las de Indonesia. Las de Brasil se ven alcanzadas por 31; las alemanas por 28; italianas y españolas por 27 cada una; las de Estados Unidos por 25, y las de Uruguay por 24.

Una usina de trabajo: las restricciones a la importación

14 Jun 2011
El Cronista Comercial

Trade protection backfires on FDI

"The global financial crisis has raised the threat of protectionism. This column argues that the worst offenders will suffer a drop in foreign direct investment inflows.

Trade protection backfires on FDI

9 Jun 2011
Holger Görg and Christiane Krieger-Boden, VoxEU

UK: Extension of a temporary state aid scheme 'Small amounts of compatible aid'

On 10 January 2011 the European Commission announced an extension of the UK state aid scheme called 'Small amounts of compatible aid'. The new end date for the scheme is now 31 December 2011.

UK: Extension of a temporary state aid scheme 'Small amounts of compatible aid'

8 Jun 2011
GTA, Global Trade Alert

- « first
- ? previous
- ?
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7
- 8
- 9
- 10
- 11
- ?
- next ?
- last »

Source URL: http://www.globaltradealert.org/coverage

Global Trade Alert is a CEPR initiative

Global Trade Alert is supported by